

Sabiha Raof, MD, FACR, FCCP

Dr. Sabiha Raof is the Chief Medical Officer and Patient Safety Officer for the MediSys Health Network in Queens, New York. She has also served as the Chairperson of Radiology since 2001. Dr. Raof came to USA after completing her medical education in Kashmir, India. She finished her residency in Radiology at Nassau University Hospital and a fellowship in body imaging at Long Island Jewish Medical Center in Long Island, NY. She has helped transform her two Radiology departments to provide high quality, patient-centric care and achieve the designation of “Diagnostic Imaging Centers of Excellence” from ACR. As a breast cancer survivor herself, her passion is to promote person and family centered care. Dr. Raof has received several grants from Avon and Susan G. Komen for breast cancer education and outreach. She is the Vice Chair of the Quality Experience Committee at the American College of Radiology. She is a member of the Clinical Decision Support committee for the American College of Radiology. She is also one of the two physician editors for Imaging 3.0 case studies for ACR. Dr. Raof worked with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid services (CMS) on their Transforming Clinical Practices Initiative and served as a national faculty leader for this project. Currently, she has been invited by CMS to participate as a Clinical Champion for the Quality Payment Program. Serving as a Clinician Champion provides an opportunity for Dr. Raof to collaborate with CMS in a voluntary capacity, sharing her insights to the program and representing a community of her peers. This exciting partnership with CMS allows her to help communicate about the Quality Payment Program, provide a cutting edge perspective on the value of the program, identify successes and challenges, and share valuable feedback from stakeholders .
